To the People of East Jordan

You may enjoy reading, as I did, the following letter, one of several I received to-day:

Attention Slacker Darbee:

Its to bad you weren't near fifty years old so you could have joined some of the so-called boys and girls as some of our real patriots did who had families. Why don't you move to a place where rats like you are more appreciated. For your information I don't drink whiskey either but I still let the people have their own ideas on the subject.

Andy Anderson

Not knowing who "Andy" was I inquired around a bit and found him to be the gentleman who operates the small restaurant at the intersection of Main Street and Mill Street directly opposite the Sinclair Garage.

DEFEAT ELLSWORTH AND PELLSTON BY WIDE MARGINS

The East Jordan "Mechants" banged out 32 hits good for 32 runs as they walked all over Ellsworth and Pellston in last week's games.

Ellsworth was the first victim and went down 17-0. The game was played over there last Thursday night. East Jordan had 17 hits in this game. Bulow, with 2 triples and a double, and Spin Cihak, with a triple and a single, provided much of the power. Every man in the East Jordan lineup hit at least once in the game, as 3 Ellsworth pitchers failed to halt them. The game was called at the end of 8 innings because of darkness.

Batteries: For Ellsworth, A.Drenth Peebles, G. Drenth, and Lord; For East Jordan, G. Gee, C. Saxton and Sommerville.

In the game Sunday with Pellston, which was played here, the locals combined 15 hits, 5 errors, and 3 walks to produce 15 runs. The final score of this game was 15-1. Chuck Saxton, Bulow, R. Gee, A. Dougherty, Bill Saxton, and D. Gee all had 2 hits apiece. Chuch only allowed 3 hits and 1 run, as he walked 1 and struck out 9.

Batteries: For Pellston, Brandau, Oswald and Sims; East Jordan C. Saxton and Sommerville.

East Jordan plays Hillman there Sunday in what should be a great ball game.

Celebrate Their Anniversary

PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH OBSERVES 65th ANNIVERSARY

Present and former members of the First Presbyterian Church, East Jordan, united this week end in the observance of the 65th anniversary of that church. The celebration began on Saturday evening at 5:30. There was an interesting display of historic pictures at the church, and many people gathered during Saturday afternoon to see the senes of old. Potluck supper was served at 6:30 p.m. in the basement with about 155 in attendance. After the supper there was a program in the church auditorium, presided over by Donald J. Porter, Grand Rapids. This program included a song service of hymns, which was led by Ted Malpass. Mrs. Mabel Secord gave a masterful account of the history of the church, which contained many interesting sidelights on the history of East Jordan itself. She mentioned the fact that the church was organized in 1882 under the leadership of John Redpath, who was a missionary of the Presbyterian Church. After the presentation of Mrs. Secord, Rev. C. S. Hastings, gave a brief message on, "Thoughts On the Future." During the program, Donald Porter gave a very amusing piece concerning what might be termed, "an imaginary account of the 100th anniversary of the East Jordan Presbyterian Church."

On Sunday morning at 10:30 a.m., the Lord's Supper was observeed, and Mr. Hastings spoke on the subject, "The Ancient Landmarks." The theme of th sermon was: In looking to the past we must seek guideposts which will teach us how to live today and tomorrow.

Many out-o-town geusts were present at these services, and many letters of congratulation were received.

A telegram of good wishes was received from Emma Glenn Dunham and Allie Glenn Severson, - sisters who were charter members of the church.

LOOKING BACKWARD

From the Herald Files of Forty, Thirty and Twenty Years Ago
Compiled by Mrs. Mabel Secord

July 27, 1907

A leading article on the front poge is quoted from the Detroit Journal and refers to the timber lands of the Estate of David Ward. Mr. Lisk comments on some of it being incorrect (and I happen to know it is) but some of the figures are interesting.

The Michigan Central R. R. had just bought the Detroit and Charlevoix road of 44 miles for $500,000. The article predicts that a syndicate of Bay City lumber operators will buy "the white pine forests and still larger hardwood forests at a price of $5,000,000 or upward, more sawmills will be put up in, and first the pine and then the hardwood felled, sawed into lumber, and sent to market on a wholesale scale." The syndicate had delayed buying until the railroad passed into the hands of the M. C. The article states the acreage was 78,000 but the real figure was 85,000. It also estimates the pine at 300,000,000 feet and the hardwood one to two billion feet.

It is a nice story but the fact remains that Ward heirs continued cutting the pine at their mill at Deward until the time for the final settlement of their father's estate (1912) came. They then sold the mill, most of the houses, etc.

A few weeks ago my son, George, had to take a Cleveland attorney and wife to Deward to start them on a canoe trip down the Manistee river. I went along, the first time we had been there together since the mill closd 35 years ago last March. Afteer getting the people settled on their first camp site we went back and after much search found one of the corner posts of the mill, from which I was able to trace the foundation of the 307 by 54 foot structure. The mill pond has been gone for years but I found the crib where the intake of water for the boilers was; the cement foundations for the main drive shaft, a wheel having a face of 40 inches, 26 feet in diameter; the four cement posts of the waterworks derrick; Then we went further on to where the boarding house stood, the drug store, and finally to where the three houses I lived in during our ten years residence there had once stood. I can think of nothing that looks more desolate than the site of a once busy town, now completely vanished. I gathered wild strawberries on the ground beneath where millions of feet of white pine lumber had been sawed, and up on the hill where millions of dollars worth of lumber had been piled we found the ties of the railroad spurs over which it was carried to market; the most of it to the Ward docks on Lake Charlevoix north of East Jordan. in front of where Pat Steiner now lives. The basin of the big millpond is now a meadow.

A liner reads: "Sacred Concert at Presbyterian church next Sunday evening at 7:30. An offering expected."

The ladies Aid Society of the above church was planning their next meeting at Monroe Creek and transportating was to be in launches at 1:30 and 2:00 Standard from the foot of William St. On Sunday there was to be an excursion to Harbor Springs leaving East Jordan on the "Hum" at 10:00 A. M., then transferring to the Str. Missouri at Charlevoix. Fare on each boat was 50c for the round trip.

To those who preferred rail travel there was a D. and C. excursion to the huckleberry fields aroud Deward and the trout streams. Fares were Green River, 50c; Deward, 75c; Frederic, $1.00. The train also stopped both ways at the Manistee and AuSable rivers. The train was to leave East Jordan at 5:30 A. M., and Frederic at 9:30 P. M. arriving back in East Jordan at midnight.

Richard Gidley, East Jordan druggist, aged 60, died July 24th. Services were held at the home and burial in Bay View cemetery near Eastport.

July 27, 1917

Mrs. Seth LaValley, formerly of East Jordan, died at her home in Boyne City Monday. Burial was in Wilson cemetery.

Miss Jennie Stanek and Andrew Gagnon were married at St. Joseph's church Monday morning.

Sunday morning, July 29th, Dr. Selby Frame Vance will preach at the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Vance has been for 12 years Professor of Bible at Lane Theological Seminary, Cincinnati, and is known as one of the foremost bible teachers in the U. S." (Note: This was the first guest speaker from Sequanota to preach at our church and we head him every summer until failing health intervened. He died Sept. 27, 1937.

July 29, 1927

The first column is filled with a description of the trip the E. J. H. S. Band made to the Governors Conference on Mackinac Island July 24th and 25th. The invitation came through the influence of former East Jordan resident, Frank Kenyon, Supt. of the Island. The boys gave a good account of themselves, toured the Island, and gave four concerts, in addition to some extempore playing by request. A delegation of business men offered them $100 per day if they could stay over and play two more days.

The United Chautauqua of Des-Moines, Iowa gave seven performances at the High School auditorium July 29 and August 1.

Mrs. Isaac VanDeventer, 63, died at her home north of East Jordan July 25.

The Methodist church which was burned in May, 1926 has been rebuilt and was dedicated Sunday July 24th. The original building was begun May 20, 1886 and nine large pine stumps were removed to make room for the church and parsonage.

The pastor, Rev. W. H. McCartney, assumed the responsibility of removing the largest one and old residents say it was some job. Part of the parsonage was built the summer of 1887. Both buildings were remodeled and enlarged in 1911 during the pastorate of Rev. T. Porter Bennett.

The recently-organized City Band has received its new dark blue uniforms. They have been engaged to play at th Traverse City Fair and gatherings this fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy King and family have moved to Muskegon.

G. J. Zerwekh left Wednesday for Davenport where he will make his future home.

The East Jordan Lumber Co. was offering a pound of coffee free to the first person to hand in the name of the brand that was served to the Governors at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, while they were there.

Let's Keep It Clean

At considerable cost, the city has re-decorated the City Building including the rest rooms.

These were in a bad state, owing to the public's misuse of same. It is hoped that the public will use the rest rooms the same as they would in their own homes.

It is rather harsh, but the continued misuse of these rooms, both ladies and mens, will lead to prosecution of the offenders, and please remeber that parents are responsible for the acts of their children.

So, please, Let's Keep 'Em Clean.

O. H. Holley

A clergyman at a dinner party had listened to a talkative young man who had much to say on Darwin and his "Orgin of the Species."

"I can't see," he urged, "what diffenence it would make to me even if my grandfather had been an ape."

"Maybe none to you," "but I'll bet it must have made a lot of difference to your grandmother."

HOPE FOR CANCER CURE? ABSOLUTELY YES!

This encouraging news, the fight being waged against that dread disease — cancer — comes from Dr. Roscoe R. Spencer, Director of U. S. Public Health Service's National Cancer Institute. Read about it in one of many exclusive articles in The American Weekly magazine with this Sunday's (August 3) issue of The Detroit Times.

Two small children were in adjacent beds in the hospital. Said one to the other, "I'm a girl — what are you?" "I'm a boy." "But you look like a girl." she countered. "I'm a boy. I'll show you when the nurse leaves." Finally they were alone. He shyly lifted the coverse. "See," he said. "Blue booties."

A Chinese, walking through the woods, turned around to see a grizzly bear following, smelling of his tracks.

"H'm said the chinese, "you likee my tracks. Velly good, I makee some more."

A bus was very crowded the other morning, and I noticed one of the male passengers suddenly bury his head in his arms. I inquired if he was ill — if there was anything I could do for him.

"Oh, no," he replied. "It's that I just hate to see old ladies standing."

Aluminum Uses

Several of the main uses made of aluminum at the beginning of the century are still among the largest consumers of the metal today, such as cooking utensils, electrical conductors, marine construction, architecture, novelties and transportation.

Fair Play and Sportsmanship

As members and officers of the Jordan River Sportsman Club, we believe that the article written by Bill Shepard in last week's issue of the Herald was un-called for. His refenence to two fine citizens of East Jordan was very poor show of sportsmanship. After all, the issue which caused such a furor in our city recently, was not to point out the good or bad qualities in certain men.Both these men have done a lot of good for the City and we're sure the citizens are proud of them. Although Bill is not a citizen of East Jordan, he is a neighbor and perhaps he didn't realize the damage he was doing to these men and their families. For this reason, we hope he will apologize publicly or at least personally to each of the parties concerned.

Remember Bill, the election is over, but good sportsmanship is everlasting.

44 ways To get "Something for Nothing"

The railroads have received 44 "rules" demands from the leaders of the operating unions . . . representing engineers, firemen, conductors, trainmen and switchmen. They say they are seeking only changes in working conditions—NOT a wage increase.

More Money For Less Work

But what kind of rules are being asked for? Twenty-eight of them would compel railroads to pay more money for the same, or less work; 7 would require additional and unnecessary men to do the same work; the rest would bring about changes in operating practices at increased cost.

For Instance:

The Union leaders demand additional train and engine crews on Diesel-powered trains—one full crew for every power unit in the locomotive. A freight train hauled by a 4-unit Diesel would have to carry 4 engineers, 4 firemen, 4 conductors, and at least 8 brakemen, or a total of 20 men instead of 5.

"Made Work"—Sheer Waste

The Union leaders demand that full-length freight trains be cut to about half their length, even though such trains are most efficient for low-cost service to you. This rule would call for twice as many locomotives, would double the number of trains, and make accidents more likely.

Additional equipment, yards, and other facilities required to take care of these short trains would cost hundreds of millions. What the Union leaders really want is to make more jobs.

The Union leaders demand that when a crew in one class of service perform incidental service of another class, they will be paid not less than a day's pay for each class, even though all service is performed as a part of the same day's work. The crew would get at least two days' pay for one day's work.

The Union leaders demand that the present basic day for passenger conductors and trainmen be reduced from 150 to 100 miles, which would have the effect of increasing their pay 50%. Such a run often takes only two or three hours!

You Can't Afford This Waste

Demands like these are against the interests of the whole American people, who depend on railroad service for nearly everything they eat, wear and use.

These rules would cost A BILLION DOLLARS annually—a gigantic waste which neither the railroads nor the country can afford.

Railroad workers are good citizens and good employes, with pride in their calling. Their record during the war was outstanding. We do not believe they fully understand the "featherbed" rules which the Union leaders are demanding. We do not believe they understand the harmful results which these rules would have to the railroad industry, to the millions of men and women dependent on railroads for their livelihood, and to the shipping and consuming public.

The great strength of America is in production—an honest day's work for an honest day's pay.

For only through greater production can we hope to stop the steady upward surge of living costs.

Surely, if ever there was a time in our history when we needed to work, not waste, this is it.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Dutch Launch Offensive in Indies; Second Tax Slash Veto Stands; Truman Hails National Prosperity

Released by Western Newspaper Union

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Map shows principal points in Java where fighting is said to be in progress as Dutch forces opened an offensive against the Indonesian Republic after failure of independence negotiations. Battles were reported to be taking place at Bandung (2), Surabaya (3) and at Palembang (4) in Sumatra. The Dutch seized all Republican installations at Batavia (1) at outset of the campaign.

SHOOTING WAR:
Dutch Attack

They had had enough, the Dutch said. They had lost all patience with the intractable Indonesian Republic.

So they came in shooting. Dutch military forces, in a swift attack on Indonesia, bombed and strafed key military installations in Java and Sumatra in what looked like the beginning of a dead-serious war.

Just why war should break out in the far-off Netherlands Indies was not immediately apparent to most of the world's peoples. There had been some wrangling between the Dutch and the Indonesians over the matter of independence for the Indies. And it seemed there had been truces that were broken. But the world little noted nor long remembered what they had been saying and doing down in that corner of the globe.

It came to war, the Dutch said, when the Indonesian Republicans continued to violate primary agreements. Both the Dutch and the natives of the islands had agreed that the Indies should receive their independence in 1949, but they couldn't come to terms on interim arrangements. Another Dutch grievance was that they were unable to control the population and that Indonesian troops had fired on Dutch forces during truces.

The Dutch struck first in Batavia, seizing all Republican installations there. Indonesian sources reported Dutch air attacks on a dozen airfields and cities in eastern Java, and heavy fighting developed at Semarang, on the northern coast of Java.

To the Dutch, Republican Premier Sjarifudin made this reply: "I accuse the Dutch of trying to recolonize us. I accuse them of violating the truce."

It was a small war, as wars go these days, but it showed up as a gaping hole in the poor, threadbare tapestry of the world's uneasy peace.

BOOM TIMES:
Danger Ahead

United States production is rolling along at the unprecedented rate of 225 billion dollars a year and the nation has hit an all-time economic peak, President Truman revealed in his mid-year economic report to congress.

He described the country as enjoying now the highest levels of employment, prosperity and production but at the same time issued a grave warning that the U. S. can plunge from boom to doom as a result of unwise price advances which are threatening inflation.

Calling for further price reductions, the President expressed his concern over the coal price increases which have grown out of the recent mine wage agreements. He repeated his contention that coal price advances are exaggerated when compared with adjustments previously made in other industries.

One of the nation's most serious shortcomings, said Mr. Truman, has been the failure to provide anything resembling adequate housing. He added that housing construction still "lags far behind the real needs of our people for homes."

"Idle self-congratulation" on this period of unparalleled prosperity is unfounded, however, the President warned. He pointed out that present full employment and high price levels are being supported by reconversion demands of business, backlog demands of consumers and by an unusual excess of exports over imports. These he described as "temporary props to our economic system."

NO TAX CUT:
Same Story

Income tax reduction was thrown squarely into the ring as a red-hot issue in the 1948 presidential campaign as the senate, for the second time, failed to override Mr. Truman's veto of the Republican-sponsored bill to cut income taxes by four billion dollars next year.

Following an overwhelming house vote of 299 to 108 to override the veto, the senate fell five votes short of doing the same thing and President Truman's thumbs-down policy on lower income taxes was sustained.

The second stage of the income tax battle was virtually a replica of the first round when the bill was vetoed and the senate failed to override. President Truman also reiterated his original stand against the measure, saying, "I regard the present bill as unsound and unsafe. I also regard it as unfair."

Senator Barkley

But he introduced a new, disturbing angle when he viewed with alarm recent international developments which, he declared, have exposed the nation to greater international "risk."

Sen. Alben W. Barkley (Dem., Ky.) backed up the President by pointing out the possibility that the situation in Europe, aggravated by Russia's action, might "blow up," and that if it does it is vital for the United States to have sound credit.

Barkley urged that the veto be supported in the interests of "our own democratic economy and our obligations to mankind."

DENIAL:
No Innuendoes

In an unusual official statement issued through the war department, Maj. Gen. Leslie R. Groves, wartime director of the Manhattan atomic bomb project, made a firm denial of allegations that he had tried to discredit the administration of the civilian atomic energy commission.

Groves said Secretary of War Patterson had "expressed the desire that I issue a statement" on the matter and went on to declare that "all such reports and innuendoes are absolutely untrue."

He added that he feels that the war department "has cooperated wholeheartedly with the atomic energy commission since its appointment, and I personally as well as the organization of which I am a member stand ready at any time to lend assistance to the members of the atomic energy commission, if such assistance is desired by them."

General Groves was relieved as head of the army's Manhattan project on January 1.

CASH FOR VETS:
Terminal Leave

Nine million World War II veterans will be eligible, on September 1, to turn in their terminal leave bonds for an approximate total of 1.8 billion dollars, under terms of a bill passed by congress.

Approved by the senate in an 85 to 0 vote, the measure had two weeks earlier received unanimous house approval.

The bill would permit, but not require, veterans to turn in their terminal leave bonds for cash at local banks after September 1. Under the present law, the maturity date is five years after the date of issuance.

Proper Handling Vital to Soft Corn

Swift, concerted efforts to maintain the nation's meat supply by the proper handling of soft corn this fall was the principal point urged by several speakers at a meeting in Chicago sponsored by the Society of Agricultural Engineers.

The group was told by N. E. Dodd, undersecretary of agriculture, that farmers should be aided by equipment manufacturers in planning for the wise handling of wet corn on as broad a scale as possible because the chances of frost injury this year in some sections is from 5 to 10 times greater than average.

If the wet corn is not handled properly it will mold and spoil next spring when warm weather develops, and the resulting loss would be as great as if the corn had not been grown, Dodd said.

BROADSIDE

BOWED OUT . . . Ben Cohen, last of the original "brain trust" of early Roosevelt administration days, when his resignation as counselor of the state department was accepted, after 14 years of service.

Dewey

CONTENDED . . . Representative Mansfield (Dem., Mont.) that Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York had leveled a slur at Montana when he offered to "give" the state 50,000 Communists.

IRKED . . . Dr. Robert C. Miller, director of San Francisco's Steinhart aquarium, when he discovered that a shipment of fish from Hawaii contained Humuhumuhiukole instead of the Humuhumunukunukuapuaa he had ordered.

CANCELLED . . . Eva Duart Peron, wife of the president of Argentina, her scheduled visit to Great Britain, to the professed mystification of the British foreign office. However, some reports of social intrigue are said to have reached London from Madrid, Rome and Lisbon where Senora Peron visited on her odyssey from the Argentine.

EXPECTING . . . Shirley Temple, a baby, her first, in January. The 19-year-old actress and her husband, John Agar, 26, made the momentous announcement at a family party, after which it became a national issue.

ACCUSED . . . The steel industry, by Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers, of fostering a program of planned shortages that could precipitate a major depression by 1950. Reuther called for a government investigation of the steel shortage and said that it is up to the government to make the industry produce or go into the steel business for itself.

HIGH BRASS:
New Secretary

Kenneth C. Royall, 53, undersecretary of war, has been nominated by President Truman to succeed Robert P. Patterson who resigned as secretary of war, ending a seven-year period of government service.

Patterson, staunch advocate of armed forces unification, told Mr. Truman that he had withheld his resignation until it appeared that the unification measure would be passed by congress.

But it seemed reasonably certain that Patterson would not be out of a job for long. He was expected to be named to the first vacancy that occurs on the supreme court bench.

Secretary of War Royall, a native of Goldsboro, N. C., served in both World War I and II. He held the rank of brigadier general when he was appointed undersecretary of war in November, 1945.

HAY FEVER:
Perhaps a Cure

The answer to hay fever sufferers' prayers may now be coming out of a Brooklyn laboratory in the form of a new drug which, its makers contend, is effective whether or not an individual's hay fever is caused by an allergy.

Called anthallan, the drug is a coal tar derivative. Although it is difficult to manufacture, it will be available to at least 500,000 Americans this hay fever season. Manufacturers say that it can't be made fast enough to take care of all the five million hay fever victims in the United States.

Worried

Leon Henderson, former price administrator, issued substantially the same warning that President Truman sounded in his economic address, only Henderson was considerably more alarming. Said he: "Unless something is done and done promptly," America faces a postwar collapse like that of 1920-21 following World War I.

Back to Earmuffs

Grandfather was probably right when he talked about how much colder the winters were when he was a boy, reports Ivan B. Tannehill, chief of the U. S. weather bureau's forecast division.

Not only that, Tannehill also thinks that the old fashioned winters—colder and snowier—are on the way back. It's a matter of cycles, and the turn toward chillier weather came about 1940.

CAN OR FREEZE CHERRIES NOW FOR NEXT WINTER

Cherries are one of those fruits which can take a lot of sugar or just a little at canning time. But sugared or unsugared, canned or frozen, they are worth the trouble to have crusty cherry pies, cobblers or fruit sauces next winter.

Roberta Hersehy, foods specialist at Michigan State college, advises that you use well-ripened, firm cherries. Wash and pit.

To each quart of cherries add one-half cup of sugar. You may need to add a little water to prevent sticking. Bring slowly to a boiling point. Pack hot in glass jars. Cover with boiling sirup up to ½ inches from the top of the jar. Process pint or quart jars or No. 2 or 2½ cans 15 minutes in the boiling water bath.

Cherries can be canned without sweetening. However, flavor, color and texture are usually improved when sugar is used.

For freezing, select high-quality, firm, fully ripened fruit, and freeze as soon as possible after picking. Wash and remove stems, discarding any injured cherries.

Sweet cherries should be packed into cartons and covered with 50 percent sirup using 1 cup of water to each cup of sugar. Stir sirup until sugar is completely dissolved. Chill before adding to cherries. Close cartons and put in freezer without delay.

Pit sour cherries, add one cup of sugar to each three or four cups of cherries, pack in cartons, and freeze immediately.

Use a container which has a tight seal and does not leak. The more nearly moisture-proof and vapor-proof the carton, the better the frozen fruit will be. Allow a space of ½ to ¾ inches at the top for expansion during freezing. Manufacturers directions will tell you about the space to leave.

Our Responsibility in Influencing Family Life

LESSON TEXT FOR AUGUST 3—Proverbs 1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 17:6; 19:18; 22:6; 23:22-26.

MEMORY SELECTION—Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old, he will not depart from it.—Proverbs 22:6.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Of The Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.

TRUTH must be translated into living, and there is no place where it can be more effective than in the home. We will want to make much of this lesson, for it is the only one during the entire year which deals directly with the home.

The book of Proverbs, to which we were introduced last Sunday, abounds in practical advice with a definitely spiritual emphasis, a combination at once wholesome and effective. This is the first of eight lessons making application of Proverbs to the problems of modern life.

Everyone in the home has a measure of responsibility for making the family life what it ought to be. No one from the small child to the great-grandmother is without influence, and each must contribute to the welfare of the home. Our lesson reaches from the young person to the grandfather rejoicing in his children's children.

It begins quite properly with

I. Youth Looking to Parents (1:8, 9; 6:20-23; 23:22-26).

YOUNG people want to be well-dressed and properly groomed. They are interested in that which adorns and improves their appearance. It is right that they should have such concern. Let us remind them, however, that a young man or woman should not only be physically well-groomed, but spiritually attractive as well. If we should give as much thought to that side of our beings as we do to our bodies, there would be wonderful improvement in the life of the individual and in the home.

The child who is properly instructed, and who is responsive to that instruction, is prepared for life no matter where it may lead him (6:22). Wherever and whenever he needs guidance, night or day, it is with him. Even when he sleeps, he is in the hand of God for blessing.

Let no young man or woman be betrayed into that awful folly of our day which neglects the teaching of parents and of the church. Disaster is ahead on that road —sure disaster, and swift!

But now look at the other side of the matter, where we see

II. Parents Looking After Youth (19:18; 22:6).

THERE is a foolish idea current in our day which says that the way to rear children is to let them develop according to their own interests and instincts, without discipline or definite guidance.

The fruits of that kind of child training are now being harvested in the present crop of juvenile delinquents. We have the sad and awful proof before us that children cannot be reared that way.

We are not pleading for a return to the unduly restrictive measures of some of our forefathers; children are not helped by harshness or cruelty. But there is a proper place for definite instruction, for discipline, yes, even for chastening when that becomes necessary.

The larger part, and the most effective part, of this matter is the training of the child (22:6) and when properly done it brings forth the finest of results in later life. The boy who has been taught and directed right may get on a sidetrack for a time, but there is always the promise of a return to the right way.

This business of rearing children calls for the best any of us can put into it, and over and above that, all the grace and wisdom that God can and will give us.

We have reserved one verse for our final point, for here we find

III. Age and Youth Working Together (17:6).

OLD men need encouragement, and they receive it in no richer or more satisfying measure than in the delight they take in their children's children. Young people should remember that, and not fail to give to their grandparents, as well as their parents, the full measure of their interest and devotion.

But now note that "the glory of children are their fathers," yes, and grandfathers. How sad it is when a boy has to be ashamed of his father or one of his grandparents.

That puts on each one of us who has children a truly weighty responsibility. We must walk worthily before God, and before our children, even down to old age, when our grandchildren look to us for an example of godliness and gracious living. May God help us!

Like a virtuous wife, that which is commonplace is often unappreciated.

We refer in particular to Michigan's 10,000 inland lakes, its 2,028 miles of Great Lakes shorelines, and its numerous navigable rivers and streams.

Because these lakes, sandy beaches and waterways are a familiar part of the Michigan scene, we have a tendency to take these natural resources all for granted and to postpone until "tomorrow" our enjoyment of them.

The other day we dropped in at the office of a newspaper editor who likes to go fishing. Knowing his hobby, we made prompt inquiry.

"How's fishing in these parts this season?" we asked. The editor looked at us with a far-off yearning and recollection.

"Come to think about it," he said "I havn't been fishing yet this summer. That's the trouble with Michigan. Our lakes are here today and they will be here tomorrow. It's too darn easy to get in the habit of going fishing tomorrow but never going fishing today."

A favorite uncle and aunt paid us a visit over a recent week end.

Packing up our snug cabin-in-wheels, we headed our house trailer towards the Michigan west coast. Our destination: Muskegon State Park with its 1,357 acres of woodland and dunes and three miles of Lake Michigan sandy beach.

The harbor entrances into Muskegon lake was lined with townspeople and tourists who were fishing for perch. A pole and some minnows and lots of patience, and you can while away several hours pleasantly at the end of a busy day.

On the lake and inside the harbor were all kinds of boats: Sailboats lazily drifting, boats noisily powered by outboard motors, and luxurious cabin cruisers which cost their owners a pretty penny — five to six figures.

The Clipper arrived about 6:45p.m. nearby were thronged with sun-tanners and swimmers.

To us here was Michigan! The same scene was duplicated on the same Sunday along the shore of Lak Michigan, Lake Superior, Lake Huron, Lake St. Clair, Lake Erie, and the Detroit and St. Clair rivers —just to mention the main waterways. Our sole cost for the week-end other than for food, was the park fee for electricity — 20 cents a day!

Let's take another weekend outing, just to prove our point. This time we go on an afternoon canoe trip on the Huron river from Milford to the Proud Lake recreational area which is part of the state's 100,000-acre health and sports program for the Detroit metropolitan district.

Our hosts: The editor of the Milford newspaper and his wife. Another couple from Milford are in the party. The water is high, so we portage around two bridges. Outboard motors cut our traveling time against the river current.

Th. Huron flows through a series of lakes, all fine for fishing. You travel through wide marshes and along rough hillsides, hedge rows and wild meadows. You arrive at Proud Lake, a small body of water surrounded by woods and marshes. It reminds you of North Michigan — and yet you are less than 30 miles from Detroit.

No matter where you go in Michigan, you will find opportunity to enjoy the outdoors on Michigan water. Here is wealth waiting to be used. Take some today!

Talk of easy money is for easy men.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Jane Cupper's "Daring" Bathing Suit

The Cuppers showed me some tin-types of their nineteen-ten vacation—picnicking on the beach with beer and pretzels, in bathing suits that made them look like they were dressed in street-wear.

Dee was smothered in a long-sleeved pull-over with knee length shorts, and looking embarrassed—as if he thought Jane's costume of a heavy blouse, two copious skirts, and long black stockings was a little daring.

We laughed a lot at those costumes . . . but come to think of it, as Dee says, we'll probably look just as funny twenty years from now, in what we call our "Modern" clothes. Only thing that won't change in the picture is that mellow, wholesome glass of beer.

From where I sit, tolerance that lets us wear sensible, decent clothes —to give us sun and air and freedom—will keep that wholesome glass of beer a part of the American tradition.

1937 telephone rates won't work in 1947

THERE have been a lot of changes moneywise since 1937. Wages have gone up. Taxes have gone up. Prices of most things have advanced. But during this time, telephone rates haven't budged an inch ahead.

The last rate increase, in fact, was in 1926—21 years ago! From then until 1937 telephone rates went down substantially. Since 1937, there have been even further local reductions in a number of exchanges, and toll rates have come down too. But, in general, the 1937 rates prevail today.

Looking at the other side of the ledger, post-war wage adjustments alone, including settlements reached during the recent strike, have boosted our costs $11,000,000 a year. All our other costs have risen, too.

But our income hasn't gone up nearly as fast as our costs. In the ten years since 1937, income has increased 141%. Costs have gone up 193%. Our return on investment has dropped more than a third.

We've held the line on rates just as long as possible. Now we have to ask for an increase in order to protect our customers' service.

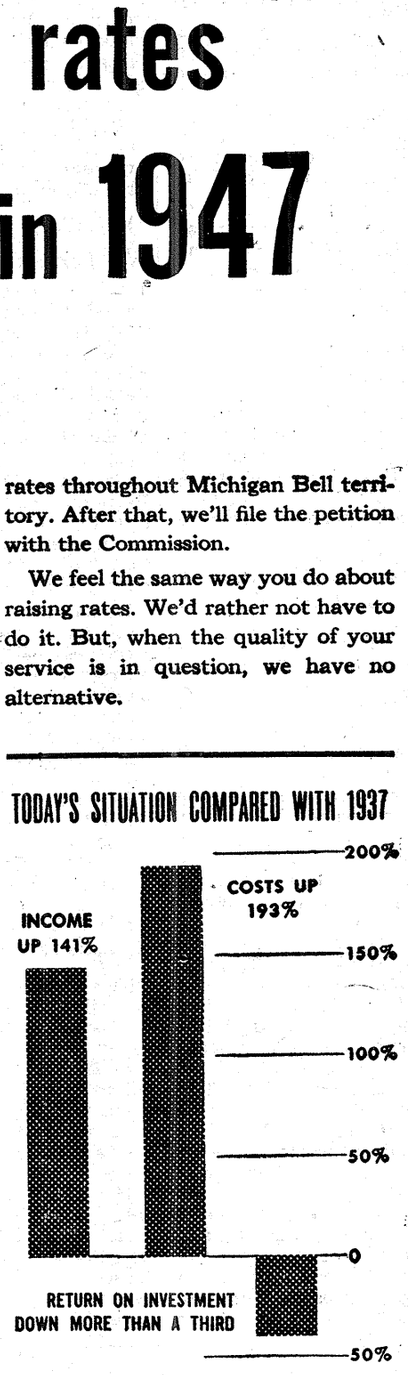

We still have a lot of additions to make to the telephone system before we can give service to those who are waiting, and give better service to everybody. This will take a lot of money . . . money which must come from investors. Investors will put up the money only if they are assured a fair return, which we cannot provide under our present rates. A growing business, especially, has to earn a good return in order to attract the capital needed for growth.

So the future of Michigan's telephone service depends on raising rates enough to assure the financial stability of your telephone company.

That's why we're going to ask the Michigan Public Service Commission for a public hearing to review our proposed new schedule of rates. (The Public Service Commission is the body established by State law and appointed by the Governor to regulate utility rates.) During the week of August 3, we'll publish details of the proposed rates throughout Michigan Bell territory. After that, we'll file the petition with the Commission.

We feel the same way you do about raising rates. We'd rather not have to do it. But, when the quality of your service is in question, we have no alternative.

TODAY'S SITUATION COMPARED WITH 1937

NOTE: Where the term "Income" is used above, its meaning is the same as "Revenue" or "Gross Income." Where the term "Investment" is used, it means the original cost of the telephone property less the depreciation reserve accrued against the ultimate retirement of the property.

Early Corporations

Corporations were chartered in America as far back as the Colonial period. Banks were among the first businesses to be incorporated. Other early corporations included stage, turnpike, canal, water and insurance companies.

U. S. Telephones

In terms of capital investment, telephones are the third largest public utility in the country (after electric power and transportation). More than 80 per cent of the telephones in the United States are operated by one system. About 6,500 independents account for the other 20 per cent of the total telephones operated.

A Dead Loss

An insurance policy was taken out in the name of George Washington White of Birmingham, Ala. The insurance company received the premium payments promptly for four years, and then they stopped. The company sent several notices and finally received this belated reply:

"Dear Sirs: Please excuis us as we cant pay no more insurance on George as he died last June. Yours truly, Mrs. G. W. White."

"I know, I know," he stormed. "But you're burnin' up my lamp wick!"

That's The Point

"That was no tack," replied the stewardess, "we're flying low and that was the Washington monument."

Race Goes to Veterans

NORMANDY AND PACIFIC WARRIORS NOMINATED

Two former service men, one a legless veteran with little political experience, squared off Wednesday in the fight for Michigan's vacant seat in congress.

Charles Potter, 36, of Cheboygan, politically unknown, who lost his legs in Normandy, and Harold D. Beaton, 41, of St. Ignace, former Mackinac county prosecutor and Pacific war veteran, won in Tuesday's special Eleventh district primary.

Defeats Speaker Knox

The Republican nomination went to Potter in a decisive 4 to 3 edge over Victor A. Knox, speaker of the house in Michigan's legislature. Beaton defeated Mrs. Violet Patterson of Perkins for the Democratic nomination by a 2 to 1 margin.

Voters of the district will choose between the two in an election Aug. 26 to fill the vacancy left in Michigan's congressional delegation by the recent death of Rep. Fred A. Bradley, Rogers City Republican.
